

Separated Parents Policy

Status: Recommended

Aim

Research and experience have shown that separated parents can work well together in the best interests of their children and can together play a role in their children's education. However, some parents become estranged and are unable to work together as effectively together, compromising the best interests of their children, especially during the initial stages of their separation. This is very often traumatic for any children concerned where personal family problems can have an impact on the child and on the schools the children attend.

Purpose

This policy is an attempt to minimise any impact, clarify to all parties what is expected from separated parents and what can be expected from the school/staff.

The definition of a parent for school purposes is much wider than for any other situation. The Education Act 1996 defines a parent as:

- all natural parents, including those that are not married;
- any person who has parental responsibility but is not a natural parent eg a legally appointed guardian or the Local Authority named in a Care Order; or
- any person who has care of a child i.e. a person with whom the child resides and who looks after the child irrespective of the relationship.

Who has 'Parental Responsibility?' (The Children Act 1989)

- All mothers automatically have parental responsibility;
- If the parents of a child were married/in a civil partnership at the time of birth, both parents automatically have parental responsibility;
- For children born after 1 December 2003 to unmarried parents, where the father's name is on the birth certificate, both the mother and father would usually have automatic parental responsibility; and
- In all other cases, parents seeking parental responsibility rights can acquire them through various legal means.

(For further guidance see www.gov.uk/parental-rights-responsibilities)

Having parental responsibility means assuming all the rights, duties, powers, responsibilities and authority that a parent of a child has by law. People other than a child's natural parents can acquire parental responsibility through:

- being granted a Residence Order;
- being appointed a Guardian;
- being named in an Emergency Protection Order (although parental responsibility in such a case is limited to taking reasonable steps to safeguard or promote the child's welfare); or
- adopting a child.

What does having ‘care of a child mean’?

Having care of a child or young person means that a person who the child lives with and who looks after the child, irrespective of what their relationship is with the child, is considered to be a parent in education law. This could be shown by interaction with the school, for example attending meetings, communicating by telephone or email, being on the school’s record as being involved (in whatever capacity) or residence with the child where, for all intents and purposes, the person is part of the family, or a man or woman married to a parent of a child.

Examples below will help establish this relationship:

- Are they listed on school records?
- Does the school have contact details for them?
- Do they meet with teachers/attend parents’ evenings?
- Have they been involved with the measures designed to improve attendance?
- Do they contact the school on behalf of the child when s/he is ill?
- Do they live with the child?
- How long has the school known of them being connected with the child?
- Does the adult bring/collect the child to/from school?
- Is the adult married to the parent of the child?

It would not be appropriate to assume that someone having a ‘casual’ relationship with the parent of a child necessarily has ‘care of the child’ unless we have cause to believe the person has some involvement with the child’s life – living with the child could be a determining factor as could the other examples outlined above.

It is therefore those adults who are having significant input to a child’s life who can be classified as ‘parent’, having ‘parental responsibility’ or who have ‘care of a child’.

Parents as defined above are entitled to share in the decisions that are made about their child and to be treated equally by schools. In particular, these entitlements include:

- appeals against admission decisions;
- Ofsted & school based questionnaires;
- participation in any exclusion procedure;
- attendance at parent meetings/school events; and
- access to school records, copies of school reports, newsletters, invitations to school events, school photographs relating to their child and information about school trips.
(There is more detail on this later in the policy.)

The Governing Body recognise that while the parents of some pupils may be separated they are entitled to the above and this entitlement cannot be restricted without a specific court order. In particular, the school does not have the power to act on the request of one parent to restrict another. The information provided to the school when the child is admitted, detailing whether parents have parental responsibility for the child, will be presumed to be correct unless a court order or original birth certificate proving otherwise is provided to the school. Similarly, the information provided on the address(es) where the child resides will be presumed to be correct unless a court order proving otherwise is provided to the school.

Our responsibilities

Denefield School fully recognises its responsibilities, and it is our sole wish to promote the best interests of the child, working in partnership with all parents. Denefield School will maintain our open door policy with parents, and the relevant teacher(s) will be available by appointment to discuss any issues or concerns which separated/divorce estranged parents may have in relation to their child or children at the school.

Parents will be encouraged to resolve any issues around estrangement, contact and access to information without involving Denefield School directly. Issues of estrangement is a civil/private law matter and Denefield School cannot be involved in providing mediation, helping an estranged parent to communicate with their child or children, or using the school premises for purposes of contact.

In the event that the parents are unable to agree with one another on decisions regarding their child's educational programme, including but not limited to placement, participation in extracurricular activities, and consent to evaluation and services, the school will arrange a meeting with all parents (preferably together but separately if required) to attempt to assist the parents to resolve the situation. If it cannot be resolved the school may seek further guidance from external providers.

The interests of the child will always be paramount when deciding whether to accommodate a request from an estranged parent. We recognise that a Court Order can restrict a parent in having contact/access to information and we may be bound by this. In this situation we will consult with the relevant external providers to obtain advice as this may constitute a safeguarding concern.

In any event whereby the parents being estranged is appearing to impact upon the health, wellbeing and safety of a child the matter will be referred to the Children's Services for advice.

Our process

It is the responsibility of the parents to inform Denefield School when there is a change in family circumstances. The school needs to be kept up to date with contact details, arrangements for collecting children and emergencies.

We encourage parents to tell us at an early stage if there is a change in family circumstances. Whenever possible, staff will be informed of such changes so that suitable support can be offered to students. We will, however, recognise the sensitivity of some situations and maintain the level of confidentiality requested by parents as far as possible.

Newsletters & general school updates are available to all parents via the school's website and are also distributed via our students. These updates will contain all the main events within school including; productions, sports days, parent's evenings etc. When letters are sent to individual classes/students regarding subject specific trips/events we would expect parents to communicate these messages to each other as and when appropriate.

We would not expect to send general text messages, emails and letters to both parents unless specifically asked to do so.

We will hold a yearly parent evening for your child. These dates published on the school website, along with details of how to make your appointments. We would expect parents to communicate with each other regarding these arrangements. Whilst Denefield School will consider separate appointments for parents at these events by prior agreement, or when a court order is in place restricting contact between both parents, the school has no obligation to do so.

We expect that parents should liaise and communicate directly with each other in matters such as the ordering of school photographs; tickets for performances, enrichment activities and other instances.

A parent, as defined in this policy, has the right to receive progress reports and review the pupil records of their children. If the parents are separated or divorced, progress reports will be sent to the separated parent at the address held in the school's records. This also includes information relating to attendance and exclusions, unless outside agency advice has been sought and it is felt that it would be detrimental to the child to communicate this information to the parent the child no longer resides with.

In the matter of the release of a child or children, Denefield School will follow the standard agreed procedure. In the case of separated parents, Denefield School will release a child or children to a parent or named contact, in accordance with any specific arrangements notified to the school.

If one parent seeks to remove a child from school in contravention of the notified arrangements, and the parent to whom the child would normally be released has not consented, the following steps will be taken:

- The Headteacher, Deputy Head, Designated Safeguarding Lead (or member of the Safeguarding Team) will meet with the parent seeking to collect/remove the child and, in his/her presence, telephone the parent to whom the child would normally be released and explain the request;
- If the parent to whom the child would normally be released agrees, the child may be released and it will be recorded that permission was granted in this instance;
- In the event that the parent to whom the child would normally be released cannot be contacted, the Headteacher or staff member dealing with the issue may make a decision based upon all relevant information available to him/her;
- The Headteacher or staff member may have to refuse permission if agreement/consent cannot be obtained and may need to take advice before a child or children are collected/ released;
- Denefield School cannot prevent the other parent collecting the child or children but we will endeavour to reach an agreement and this may mean keeping the child or children safe whilst our staff try and reach such an agreement;
- If there is a Court Order restricting contact, or there is contravention of any access agreement, the child or children will not be released. The other parent will be advised to take any necessary action to prevent any further issues;
- During any discussion or communication with parents, the child or children will be supervised by an appropriate member of school staff in a separate room; and
- If there is a belief that a possible abduction of the child may occur, or if the parent is disruptive, the police will be notified immediately and Children's Services will be informed.

Management of the process

The Headteacher/ Designated Safeguarding Lead will familiarise themselves with this process and ensure all staff, governors and volunteers are aware of the procedures to follow should the need occur.

The process will be made available to parents and published on our school website. All parents of new students will receive a copy of this policy as part of the new student induction pack.
