The Aberfan disaster

- At 9.13am on 21 October 1966, 150,000 tonnes of coal waste slid down a hillside, engulfing Pantglas Junior School and a number of neighbouring houses.
- More than 200 children and nine teachers were waiting for their first lesson of the day to begin when a landslide of mud and debris flooded into the classroom - 116 children and 28 adults were killed.
